

Commercial services

ICONdirect.net is a community website for the international construction and development industry. It consists of profiles of companies and individual experts that can be searched by sophisticated matching software so that users can find the right skills, knowledge and experience for international projects. Companies that take a profile have a number of easy-to-use tools to interact with the community and promote their company.

Comprehensive company profile

Your company profile will contain a description of your company, key specialisations and details of typical projects, plus listings of all your international and subsidiary offices with live links to email and website addresses. You can update your entry at any time.

Promote your company

Subscribing companies can:

- publish company news
- advertise events
- post job vacancies and search our experts database for specialist staff
- upload files such as company annual reports, brochures or research documents

All items are linked to company profiles so that all the information about your company can be found in one place.

Recruit from our community

Vacancies can be posted directly to the site and reviewed immediately by you for form and content. ICONdirect editors will then review your posting before publishing it live on the web. We aim to publish postings within four working hours (UK office hours).

Newly-posted vacancies are circulated in our weekly e-bulletin.

Subscription includes the ability to post up to 30 vacancies per month, with the option to purchase extra credits thereafter. It also allows you to access the contact details of up to 30 of the experts registered in our database to help you recruit specialist staff. You can also promote your own staff by listing them as experts in the database - at no extra cost.

Search engine

Companies and experts can be searched by a hierarchical system of keywords or by a free text search engine that not only searches the content of ICONdirect but also the websites of all participating companies.

Weekly e-bulletin

Every week we send out an e-bulletin containing live links to all new items posted on ICONdirect including news, vacancies, and events. Our statistics show that this boosts the number of visits to any company featured in this way.

Multiple editing rights

Companies can allocate editing rights to up to ten staff. This means that staff in the HR department can be posting the latest vacancy at the same time as your communications staff are posting news.

How do I join?

Send an email to contact@icondirect.net or visit the website at www.icondirect.net and register for a commercial profile.

Companies are invited to pay a commercial subscription fee that includes access to all information and use of all services on the site. We tie our prices to country of domicile in order to encourage fair and diverse participation internationally. Please see our price list.
